

Quiet Ascent (Pty) Ltd

Weekly Performance Review

15 August – 15 October 2026 (Q4)

Over the past two months the portfolio has demonstrated a clear pattern of controlled growth followed by orderly consolidation.

From the mid-August base the account delivered strong positive weekly returns through September, with several consecutive weeks of meaningful upside. The largest single-week advances in this window exceeded +100%, reflecting the same high-conviction opportunities that characterised earlier periods this year.

Importantly, after the sharp expansion in early October, the subsequent pullback was contained and orderly. The account defended key levels and stabilised without cascading lower. This price action confirms that risk remains well-managed even during elevated volatility.

The overall trajectory from mid-August to mid-October shows:

- Sustained periods of positive weekly performance
- Ability to capture significant upside when conditions align
- Measured drawdowns that recover without structural damage

- A higher and more resilient base than at the start of the period

This is the operating profile we deliberately cultivate: growth that is decisive when opportunity appears, and stability that protects capital when markets reset. The percentage returns across this window reflect both the capacity for expansion and the discipline required to keep the ascent quiet and sustainable.

Quiet Ascent continues to prioritise process over noise.
